Contents: This user-friendly web page opens with the text of the California lemon law as an example of what such a law may entail. The site includes material on lemon laws for all 50 states, either as the text of the statute or civil code, or as a publication from the attorney general's Office of Consumer Affairs, depending on the state. There is a separate page on applicable laws for motorcycles (which are not specifically covered under lemon laws in most states), and additional sections on the consumer's legal rights and recourse. The site is maintained by Autopedia, an Internet resource for information on all types of motor vehicles, with pages on insurance, recalls, warranties and repairs, purchasing a vehicle, and news updates.
